High Explosives Found**

The high explosive devices that were missing from earlier today have all been located. A citizen came across them and took them to his house for safe keeping until they could be given back to the company. The company, Nuex Wireline Inc., was offering a reward which was given to the citizen. The devices are now back in the company's care. Thanks to all the citizens that called in with their valuable information to help locate them.
