Make sure that all secondary entrances and exits are secure.

Check parking lots for good lighting and unobstructed views.

Keep businesses well-lit so that they are visible from the street.

Allow visibility into the business from outside; don't block windows.

If possible, have an audible security alarm and display a sign for your security system on your residence.

Watch customers as they enter the business for strange behavior.

Know your businesses emergency plans and drills. This will allow you to react properly during an incident.

Good visibility helps protection – allow natural surveillance of your business– maximize visibility

Greet everyone who enters your business. This will let them know that you are alerted to their presence.

Remove all outdoor displays after dark.

Do not resist a robbery

In the event of a robbery, be a good witness. Get a description of the suspect and the vehicle. Relay this information to law
